Holiday Toll In U.S. Totals 585 Killed

(By United Press)

The gloomiest predictions of safety experts were being surpassed today as highway crashes in the U.S. killed more persons hour by hour during today's Fourth-of-July celebration.

The total killed in traffic climbed to 339. It was expected to spurt sharply when millions head home this evening from outlying areas.

Since 6 p.m. Friday, 585 persons had died in all types of accidents. They included, in addition to the traffic victims, 113 who were drowned, 14 dead in airplane crashes, two heat victims in California, and 97 dead in miscellaneous mishaps.

The weather was perfect and Americans were making the most of the holiday. Capacity turn-outs were expected for the traditional doubleheaders.

A tornado touched parts of Indiana and Michigan Monday night but apparently did no damage.

A heavy stream of tourist traffic boosted Michigan's death count to the highest in the nation. The state listed 45 persons dead, 29 in traffic, nine by drowning and seven in miscellaneous accidents. Cars were expected to be lined up solid for eight miles tonight, waiting to be ferried across the Straits of Mackinac.

Queen Mary's House Entered By 'Accident'

LONDON (Reuters)—Gerard O'Brien wanted a "likely-looking" house to break into and "steal" a diamond necklace. Queen Mother Mary's house, a court was told today.

O'Brien, a 26-year-old gardener, is charged with assaulting the Queen Mother's housekeeper, Mrs. Alice Knight; with assaulting Mrs. Knight's attendant, Mrs. Winifred Ralph; with being armed with a knife; and with stealing a purse elsewhere.

The offences all allegedly occurred the night of June 23, after O'Brien had been drinking. The Marlborough House break-in and the subsequent search through the royal home for O'Brien, who finally was unearthed in a basement was said by prosecutor F. Donald to have been in a state of collapse when found and to have told police: "Please sir, don't hang me for it."

Barry said there was no reason to disbelieve O'Brien's statement that he did not have the faintest idea what house he was breaking into.

Weather Forecast

Continuing clear, fog patches along the shoreline overnight. Little change in temperature. Winds southwest 20 m.p.h. both afternoons, otherwise light. Low tonight, 50; high Wednesday, 65.

MacArthur Warns N. Korean Troops

TOKYO (UP)—Gen. Douglas MacArthur announced today that he will hold the North Koreans responsible for any mistreatment of Americans or other members of armed forces under his command in Korea.

The supreme commander made the announcement soon after U.S. ground forces had gone into action for the first time in the Korean war.

MacArthur said all North Koreans who fall into the hands of his forces will be treated in accordance with humanitarian principles applied by and recognized by civilized nations involved in armed conflict.

"I will expect similar treatment for American nationals and members of armed forces of the United States, as well as nationals and members of other armed forces who may join the United States in the Korean conflict and who may at any time be in North Korean hands," MacArthur said.

Probe Murder Of Duncan Chinese

Police investigations are proceeding at Duncan into the brutal slaying last Thursday night of 82-year-old Chinese Chew Deb.

Constable Jack Meredith Jones of the B.C. police, in charge of investigations, has been unable to uncover any suspects so far. There seems little doubt that the viciously-beaten old man was the victim of a robbery. He died in hospital Saturday.

Assault took place in his shack. His murderer, ransacked the shack trying to find Chew's wallet. He missed it. The wallet was found under a plate.

Seeking Loan

LONDON (Reuters)—Economic Minister Eric Louw of South Africa is here for financial talks. He is expected to negotiate delivery of the second of two £10,000,000 ($31,000,000) loans which Britain undertook last year to advance.

May Use War II Planes To Replace Korea Jets

WASHINGTON (AP)—Some fighter planes used in the Second World War may be taken out of "mothballs" for duty in Korea because bad weather and mountains have hit jet fighters where it hurts—in the fuel tank.

Because of heavy overcast and mountainous terrain which would make descent over a target area dangerous, U.S. military men report, the Lockheed F-80 Shooting Stars have had to sneak in low.

Although the distance from bases in Japan to South Korea targets is somewhat less than the F-80's announced combat radius of 500 miles, fuel consumption at low altitude is so high they have little time for maneuvering against the enemy.

Air officers described this as one of the lessons learned in the first week of operations against North Korean invaders. It may mean that Republic F-47 Thunderbolts and F-51 Mustangs, now almost entirely assigned to air national guard units in the United States, will be shipped to the Far East.

Propeller fighters have longer range than jets and are less sensitive to altitude. They can save fuel by flying more slowly, whereas a jet must have speed to get fuel economy.

Later, the Red broadcast said: "The planes dropped rocket bombs and machine-gunned buildings and people."

East German 'Police' Totals 100,000

BERLIN (AP)—East Germany's Communist government is expanding its "People's Police" army by about 15,000 men to a total of nearly 100,000, Russian zone political sources reported today.

These forces also are to receive new weapons and to become highly-motorized through an increased budgetary appropriation of nearly 50 per cent, sources close to the East German ministry of the interior said.

The dark-uniformed "People's Police" have been branded by the Western powers as an illegal German Communist army, created and equipped with infantry weapons under Russian auspices in violation of four-power agreements for Germany's demilitarization. The Communists also have announced they are creating a naval division of these forces.

German anti-Communist spokesmen have expressed fears that the Communists might some day use this police army to create "another Korea" here with an attack of West Germany if the Western occupation powers withdrew.

East German sources said budget appropriations for the "People's Police" in the new fiscal year have been boosted by 500,000,000 East Marks to about 900,000,000 (about $250,000,000 at the official rate).

The funds are to be raised by extra levies on the governments of the five laender (states) of the Russian zone.

Unofficial estimates place the present strength of the "People's Police" at about 85,000.

Red Patrols Nearing American Outposts

TOKYO (AP and UP)—Suwon and its important airfield fell to the North Korean Reds today, a spokesman for Gen. MacArthur's advanced headquarters in Korea announced.

He said the Communist victory followed a day-long battle with all elements of four or five North Korean divisions.

The Reds quickly sent patrols farther southward, toward U.S. outposts.

Another communique said U.S. troops beat off a Communist guerrilla attack today in their first ground action of the Korean war.

Four guerrillas were killed. There were no American casualties.

The 5½-hour skirmish took place on the outer defenses of Pyongtaek, 20 miles south of abandoned Suwon, a report from the front said.

Jack James, United Press war correspondent with the American forces, said about 30 Communist guerrillas attacked one of the American outer positions at Pyongtaek with hand grenades at 11:30 p.m. Monday.

The Americans replied with mortar fire. The engagement continued until 5 a.m. today when the surviving guerrillas withdrew, James said.

TERSE DETAILS

The spokesman announcing Suwon's fall added these terse details on the fall of Suwon: Six Red tanks entered Suwon—only 20 miles south of Seoul, the fallen South Korean capital. But it was not certain whether the fighting had been in Suwon itself, or nearby.

The spokesman said he believed the latest Red thrust indicated that the Communists are "pushing with all they have all along the line."

Red patrols have advanced about five miles south of Suwon, the spokesman went on, adding he "doubts the northerners will stop at Suwon as they did at Seoul."

He said Red troops today made up "the most effective concentration" the Communists have used since they started their attack from North Korea 10 days ago.

RED CAPITAL BOMBED

North Korea's radio broadcast meantime that its capital, Pyongyang, was heavily hit for the fifth time, by U.S. bombers. It said 30 planes dropped more than 600 bombs.

Later, the Red broadcast said: "The planes dropped rocket bombs and machine-gunned buildings and people."

Evacuees Come To U.S. Coast

SEATTLE (AP)—The first plane load of American evacuees from Korea is scheduled to reach Seattle at midnight tonight, 34 hours after leaving Tokyo, Northwest Airlines reported today.

The flight inaugurates a twice-a-week shuttle service N.W.A. is operating from Anchorage, Alaska, to Tokyo to bring out several hundred persons, forced to flee from war-torn Southern Korea.

They include army, air force and navy dependents, and civilians connected with the U.S. military and the State Department.

The number aboard the initial flight was not known here, but it is believed the DC-4's making the shuttle run will carry at least 40 passengers.

PLANES COMB GULF

Strange Sub Hunted In Florida Waters

PENSACOLA, Fla. (UP)—The U.S. navy announced today that military planes have been searching the Gulf of Mexico for an unidentified submarine reported to have surfaced off the west Florida coast.

A tight security lid was clamped on the search and the navy would confirm only that it had sent patrol planes from the naval air station to an area south of Fort Walton, Fla. It said a "full investigation" was under way.

Eglin Air Force base reported it also has sent up one plane and was "standing by."

The Pensacola Journal said it understood the sub was sighted three miles offshore between Ft. Walton and Destin. The Florida highway patrol was asked to take navy officials to the area, the newspaper said.

A patrol spokesman said all of its information had been turned over to the navy.

An air force spokesman said he understood the sub either had been spotted by the highway patrol or else the first report was made to the patrol by someone else.

Navy planes do not normally fly in that area and Eglin air base officials denied that one of their planes had reported seeing the sub.

The Journal reported that efforts were made to establish contact with the sub without success.

The navy would not say whether it had submarines operating in the area.

The Journal said its information, indicated that crash boats also had been sent to the scene, but the Coast Guard said it had not sent out any surface craft.

Underground Reds In Japan Questioned

TOKYO (BUP)—The Attorney General's office today investigated reports of alleged underground activity by the Japanese Communist Party's purged central committee.

Official sources revealed that Red leader Kyuichi Tokuda and his top lieutenant, Sanzo Nosaka, were among 18 members of the central committee who have been summoned to answer questions regarding an alleged "secret" Communist meeting. The 24-member central committee, ruling body of Japan's Communists was purged by the Japanese government last month.

Officials believed that the talks at the meeting, purportedly held at the hot spring resort 60 miles north of here, dealt with reconstruction of the weakened party.

Yoshio Shiga, reportedly the No. 3 Red, and Koreto Kurahara, a former central committee member, were questioned yesterday. They denied any secret plot.

A spokesman for the Attorney General's office said that questioning thus far had failed to reveal anything resembling conspiracy.

Warns U.S. Of Other Threats Than Korea

AZUSA, Cal. (UP)—Under-Secretary of the Navy Dan A. Kimball warned today that the United States must not let its attention be drawn "from our other frontiers" by the Korean war.

In a speech at the community Fourth of July celebration here Kimball said that "while we actively assist our friends in Korea, we must also keep watch on our other frontiers."

"We must not permit our attention to be drawn from the ever-present threat posed by Soviet psychological aggression," he said.

He said this type of aggression includes Communist efforts to stir up trouble between management and labor.

"Communism also seeks to pit nation against nation by creating distrust, suspicion and disunity," he said.

Through division among nations, and through division of groups within nations, communism aims to conquer.

"Guns and money" are not enough to fight the cold war, he said. "We must forge spiritual weapons in the pattern of those with which our forefathers were familiar, in order to provide lasting strength necessary to establish the basis for world peace."

Retention Of Ss. Aorangi In Service Urged

MELBOURNE (Reuter)—The Melbourne Sun today urges intervention by the Australian government to prevent suspension of the only remaining passenger steamship service between Australia and North America.

Owners of the 17,500 ton Aorangi—only ship on the Sydney-Victoria-Vancouver route—announced Monday they would suspend the service because it was losing too much money.

The Melbourne Sun says this underlines the difficulties caused by the continuing dollar shortage and the slow turn-around in Australian ports which contributed to high working costs.

The paper suggests Prime Minister Menzies tackle the problem on his forthcoming Washington visit.

The Aorangi—owned by the Canadian-Australasian Line Ltd., a subsidiary of the C.P.R.—was not only Australia's but also New Zealand's only regular passenger sea-link with North America. She sailed via Honolulu, San Francisco and New Zealand.

Korean Reds Move To Encircle South

25 More Tanks Thrown Into Fight As Invaders Consolidate Forces

TOKYO (AP and UP)—Gen. MacArthur's headquarters announced today (Wednesday) that 25 more Red tanks had moved into the Korean fighting zone as invader columns pushed a wide flanking movement southeast of Suwon.

The Red movement threatened encirclement of the South Korean forces in the Suwon-Inchon-Seoul triangle.

The communists reported fighting at the port of Inchon, 20 miles west of Seoul. The Southerners were still holding Inchon, MacArthur said.

South of Red-held Seoul and east of Suwon, the Northerners continued to consolidate their forces.

The communists added that Communist planes strafed a British ship off the east coast of Korea.

A spokesman at MacArthur headquarters in Korea earlier had said Suwon and its important airport fell to Red forces today.

U.S. Navy Planes Join Fight To Protect Shipping

WASHINGTON (BUP)—U.S. navy planes have been thrown into the Korean struggle as cover for U.S. shipping and protection against enemy submarines, the navy disclosed today.

The announcement came at a defense department briefing while U.S. marines, assigned to Gen. MacArthur's Far East headquarters, prepared to board transports on the west coast.

A navy spokesman said the marine ground units would be under Brig. Gen. Edward A. Craig and its air units under Brig. Gen. Thomas J. Cushman.

The assignment of navy patrol planes to Korean waters was interpreted to mean that air cover is needed to protect the movement of United States forces to the Korean Peninsula.

Canada Surveys Defence Units As Warships Ready To Go West

OTTAWA (BUP)—Canada likely will make its main contribution to United Nations police forces in Korea in naval power rather than in land or air forces, a defence department spokesman said today.

He said the department was studying closely what contribution it could make in addition to sending the destroyers Cayuga, Athabaskan and Sioux from Esquimalt tomorrow. The three ships are under orders to make for Pearl Harbor and stand by for further orders.

He declined for security reasons to say how many planes the country actually had available.

A stepped-up government study of its forces, available for foreign duty was being made today in the light of its decision to send the three destroyers to Pearl Harbor, and action in ordering two more warships to prepare for active duty.

Cost Of Living Rises 1.4 To All-Time Peak 165.4

OTTAWA (CP)—The official cost-of-living index shot up another 1.4 points during May to another record-cracking peak of 165.4, the Bureau of Statistics reported today.

This total compares with a reading of 160.5 a year ago. At May 1, the index had stood at 164.0 after remaining unchanged during April.

The index is calculated on the basis that prices in prewar 1933-1939 equalled 100.

The rise during May, the bureau said, was due almost entirely to higher meat prices, which sent the foods sub-index soaring from 204.6 to 209.0.

On average, fresh pork prices went up 6.3 cents a pound during May, beef prices 3.2 cents a pound, lamb 4.4 cents and veal 1.9 cents.

Butter dropped 1.5 cents a pound, while fresh vegetables and lemons rose slightly.

The clothing index slipped 0.1 points to 180.7 as lower prices for women's wear outbalanced slight increases in men's wear, piece goods and footwear.

Home furnishings and services advanced from 166.4 to 166.9 as a result of increases in galvanized ware and telephone rates in British Columbia.

Egg Prices Jump Another 3 Cents

The price of eggs jumped for the third time in two weeks here. New increase was three cents a dozen on Grade A large and medium eggs and one cent on pullet eggs.

The new wholesale price in the city ranges between 55 and 58 cents a dozen for Grade A large eggs, making the retail price between 62 and 65 cents. Grade A medium brand are retailing between 60 and 63 cents a dozen and pullets between 51 and 54 cents a dozen.

Readying Ontario, Haida For Possible Korean Call

The navy made known today it was readying two more of its warships for possible active service.

Word from Ottawa was that work has already started to fit-out to be ready for battle the Esquimalt-based cruiser Ontario and the destroyer Haida, now on the Atlantic.

The Ontario, one of the largest ships operated by the Royal Canadian Navy, will be the last major vessel on duty on the Pacific coast after the departure for Pearl Harbor Wednesday of the destroyers Athabaskan, Cayuga and Sioux.

Ontario has been used, as a training ship for recruits and naval reservists since the end of the war. Her summer training schedule was interrupted last week when orders came through for her to stand by here.

She is a 9,000-ton vessel built at Belfast for the Royal Navy. She was transferred to Canada in 1945.

The "Big O" mounts nine six-inch guns, eight four-inch anti-aircraft guns and six torpedo tubes.

COMPLETELY OPERATIONAL

Work to be done on her will take about three weeks, the navy says, and will make her completely operational.

The destroyer Haida until recently was part of Canada's "mothball fleet." She was placed in reserve when she returned from convoying freighters and transports in the Second World War.

So is now being fitted out as an anti-submarine vessel equipped with secret submarine-detecting devices.

The navy estimates work to be done on this ship also will take about three weeks.

JULY 4TH COSTING U.S. 1 LIFE EACH 8 MINUTES

By UNITED PRESS

Americans observing the Fourth of July holiday died violently at the rate of one every eight minutes today, heading toward the biggest holiday death toll in history.

The soaring toll shocked safety officials and the National Safety Council issued an appeal for motorists to start "acting like civilized people."

A United Press survey showed that 639 persons had died in all types of accidents since 6 p.m. Friday.

The total killed in traffic climbed to 392—one person dying on the highways about every 13 and one-half minutes. Safety officials estimated that 13,720 persons were injured on highways, on the statistical basis of 35 injured for every person killed.

In addition to the traffic victims, 120 persons drowned, there were three deaths from heat prostration in the west, 14 persons died in plane crashes and 110 were dead in miscellaneous accidents.

Last Fourth of July, 321 persons died on the highways during the three-day period.

India Ready To Mediate In Korea Fight

Russia, U.S. Learn Of Newest Offer

LONDON (AP)—India has told Russia and the United States she is ready to mediate in a bid to end the Korean war, official sources said today.

The Indian offer was conveyed to the Russian and American governments by the Indian ambassadors in Moscow and Washington.

These sources said this is how India views the situation:

If Korea had been left to work out its own future the present fighting and its ever-present threat to world peace would not have arisen.

India regards Korea as a single country and wants to see it reunited politically and economically.

Any attempt to end the fighting there would have to take into account that Korean people want unity.

Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru's government has never entered relations with the South Korean government. Equally it has not recognized North Korea.

There was no British official comment on the offer.

The informants recalled what Indian Foreign Secretary K. P. S. Menon said about Korea in the United Nations General Assembly two years ago.

Menon then declared: "Deep down in the heart of every Korean, whether in the north or in the south, is this longing for unity... what has obstructed progress is the 38th parallel. If a government in South Korea cannot be national in a geographical or political sense, it cannot also be national in a military sense, that is in the sense that it can normally defend itself against aggression without foreign assistance."

What Menon said in 1948 is held to be India's view today.

139 Air Sorties In Korea Fight

WASHINGTON (UP)—U.S. and Australian Air Forces flew 139 sorties in Fourth of July operations against North Korea for a loss of only one aircraft, the Air Force announced today.

The attacks were mainly against rail communications to the front. One Mustang, apparently Australian, was destroyed in a landing accident, but the pilot escaped.

French Govt. Resigns After Vote Defeat

PARIS (AP and UP)—The two-day-old legislative government headed by Premier Henri Queuille resigned tonight after it was defeated in a National Assembly vote.

The government went down by a vote of 334 to 221 on the premier's motion to postpone indefinitely debate which the leftists had demanded. Although not a formal vote of confidence, Queuille had announced that his government's future would be based on the assembly's approval or rejection of his request.

The defeat was brought about by the Socialist Party, which threw its weight against Queuille. The Communists and the extreme right wing De Gaullists also voted against the cabinet.

Dutch Navy Ships Aid South Koreans

ONE WOMAN'S DAY

By NANCY HODGES

MIGHTY MOSQUITOES

HAVING LIVED so long in this mosquito-free area, I wasn't at all prepared for the onslaught that met me when I drove out with a friend to the Gathau country during my stay in Ottawa. The winged warriors evidently sensed my arrival fresh from a countryside blessedly immune from their kith and kin and decided to hold a convention in honor of the occasion.

Or perhaps I should have said decided to hold a gigantic feast to welcome me to their territory. For they assailed me in droves, coming at me like jet planes—and with almost as much size and noise!—and gorged themselves on my poor defenceless wrists and ankles with disgustingly avid appetites.

BLOATED WITH BLOOD

THOSE THAT escaped slaughter at my hands dropped off, so bloated with my blood and so stuffed to sleepiness that they reminded me of the old-time guild banquets in my old home town of London, where the burghers used to eat—and drink—until they fell under the table, victims of satiety if not of sobriety.

And when another acquaintance later noted my condition, I learned that the mosquito menace was so bad that an unofficial competition was being held to decide which municipality could claim the biggest and most ferocious variety in the Ottawa area—that is, outside the mosquito-free (?) oasis created by the Federal District Commission.

FREEDOM FROM FOE

IT APPEARS that the F.D.C. wages an annual warfare against the pest in a fairly narrow orbit extending from a point just beyond Rockcliffe air station to a bit south of Billings Bridge and west of Woodroffe. Outside this sector the mosquitoes go their own sweet way—waxing bigger and better biting powers—and, according to residents of the outside area, the massed armies have taken over the whole territory with very little opposition.

I was told—by someone whose veracity I wouldn't for one moment doubt—that you can readily distinguish anyone from Cumberland, Rockland, Orleans, Masson, Buckingham, Aylmer and Gatineau by their lengthened arms and redder faces. Their red faces and longer arms, I was assured, came from the exertion in beating off the pestiferous hordes.

WOMAN PAYS!

AS IN OTHER of the thornier aspects of life, the woman pays when it comes to mosquito attacks. Short skirts and sheer stockings seemingly invite mass assaults from the winged and weaponed enemy—and Ottavians from the comparatively immune areas claim they can easily distinguish the ladies from outside by their swollen ankles. That, of course, is one time where men score. For while I wouldn't doubt that the Ontario mosquito is a past-master at invading even trouser-legs, those same trousers at least hide the ravages of the beastly biter.

I was told that at Cumberland the pests became so furious in their attack that teachers and students in the school couldn't carry on. And as to gardening in the infested areas—well, you just can't. The mosquitoes simply take over and put you out of your own back yard.

NEW MOSQUITO-HOP

THEY HAVE even been responsible for the introduction of a new dance—the mosquito-hop. It is done chiefly by waiting passengers along the bus routes along the Montreal Highway, who dance about, swatting at arms, ankles and necks, circling their head continuously to the rhythmic buzz-buzz-buzz of the bombarding pests.

And, apropos of the musical motif, their attack is just something that you have to be a Victorian let loose in the outer wilds of Ottawa to appreciate to the full. As for me, I had my fill of mosquitoes—just as they certainly had their fill of me—and the experience gives me one more reason to be satisfied that my lot has been cast in a place where mosquitoes cease from troubling and the black flies are at rest.

Krakatau Blows Its Top Again

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP)—Krakatau Volcano, which juts a steaming head out of the sea between Java and Sumatra, blew its top Monday. The crew of a Dutch ship said mud and stones were hurled a half-mile into the air in four rapid eruptions. Krakatau blew itself clear out of the water in 1883 and set off a tidal wave that killed 36,000 Indonesians on nearby islands. In the last 20 years it has built itself up above the sea's surface again in a series of minor eruptions.

Abbott May Face Budget Revision

Large-Scale Participation In Korean War Would Force Changes

OTTAWA (CP)—Should Canada become directly involved in a "shooting war" in Korea, Finance Minister Abbott probably will have to consider an upward revision of the country's 1950-51 financial budget.

The Finance Minister, who will return this week from a brief, post-session holiday, forecast in his budget speech March 28 a slim surplus of $20,000,000.

Any large-scale or lengthy participation by Canada in the Korean fighting would necessitate an upward revision of defence appropriations and could turn the anticipated surplus into a deficit.

The dispatch of three Canadian destroyers to Pearl Harbor to be ready for Korean action, if needed, might not alone upset Mr. Abbott's calculations. The destroyers were previously due to take part in a three-month exercise in European waters with the Royal Navy.

It was the highest count taken on the sidewalks on downtown Victoria.

The pedestrian count taken on the last Saturday of every June to help the assessment department arrive at values also showed the most peaceful downtown area in this year's count was on the north side of View between Douglas and Blanshard. Three hundred pedestrians were counted there.

The count at the southwest corner of View and Broad was 1,300. On the west side of Government Street near Victoria Post Office, it was 900.

Mr. Joyce said the total pedestrian count was up approximately 10 per cent from 1949, when the count was taken on June 25. He warned, however, that comparison of the number of pedestrians from year to year is misleading and depended on such factors as weather and the distance from pay day for monthly and weekly workers.

Wrong Method

FORREST CITY, Ark. (AP)—Mrs. Owen Faulk landed in hospital following the advice of neighbors. They told her that her broken clock would run again if she boiled the parts in kerosene. But when she tried it, the oil flamed up and blistered her arms, legs, face and head. She is expected to recover.

Ship Body To Hometown After Sailor's Fatal Fall

Fatally injured in a fall from a naval hospital fire escape, the body of Petty Officer Raymond Tingley, R.C.N., aged 23, will be shipped today to Medicine Hat for burial. He was born in the Alberta city.

Naval authorities believe that

PO. Tingley walked out onto a fire escape at H.M.C.S. Naden Hospital to have a smoke, either late Friday night or early Sunday morning when the fatal fall came.

It is thought he might have been leaning over looking at something, lost his balance, and plunged 40 feet.

An inquiry is being conducted by naval officials.

PO. Tingley is survived by his wife, Betty, at 31 Gorge Road East and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Tingley, Medicine Hat.

Rumor On Party Leadership Out

A rumor traced to Vancouver that Maj.-Gen. G. R. Pearkes, V.C., M.P. for Nanaimo, was considering candidacy for leadership of the Progressive Party in B.C. is unfounded.

The Nanaimo member said today that under no circumstances would he consider being a candidate for provincial party leadership.

"I have no intention whatsoever and couldn't be pressed into it. Nothing would change my decision," he said.

There has been talk of a rift in the party over leadership of Hon. Herbert Anscomb, and a faction in the membership has been planning to challenge the leadership at a party convention in the fall at Vancouver.

Warns U.S. Of Other Threats Than Korea

AZUSA, Cal. (UP)—Under Secretary of the Navy Dan A. Kimball warned today that the United States must not let its attention be drawn "from our other frontiers" by the Korean war. In a speech at the community Fourth of July celebration here Kimball said that "while we actively assist our friends in Korea, we must also keep watch on our other frontiers."

"We must not permit our attention to be drawn from the ever-present threat posed by Soviet psychological aggression," he said. "Through division among nations, and through division of groups within nations, communism aims to conquer."

East German 'Police' Total 100,000

BERLIN (AP)—East Germany's Communist government is expanding its "People's Police" army by about 15,000 men to a total of nearly 100,000, Russian zone political sources reported today. These forces are also to receive new weapons and to become highly-motivated through an increased budgetary appropriation of nearly 50 per cent, sources close to the East German ministry of the interior said.

The dark-uniformed "People's Police" have been branded by the Western powers as an illegal German Communist army, created and equipped with infantry weapons under Russian auspices in violation of four-power agreements for Germany's demilitarization. The Communists also have announced they are creating a "naval division" of these forces.

Underground Reds In Japan Questioned

TOKYO (BUP)—The Attorney General's office today investigated reports of alleged underground activity by the Japanese Communist Party's purged central committee.

Official sources revealed that Red leader Kyuichi Tokuda and his top lieutenant, Sanzo Nosaka, were among 18 members of the central committee who have been summoned to answer questions regarding an alleged "secret" Communist meeting. The 24-member central committee, ruling body of Japan's Communists, was purged by the Japanese government last month. Officials believed that the talks at the meeting, reportedly held at the hot spring resort 60 miles north of here, dealt with reconstruction of the weakened party. Yoshio Shiga, reportedly the No. 3 Red, and Koreo Kurahara, a former central committee member, were questioned yesterday. They denied any secret plot. A spokesman for the Attorney General's office said that questioning thus far had failed to reveal anything resembling conspiracy.

Queen Mary's House Entered By 'Accident'

LONDON (Reuter)—Gerard O'Brien wanted a "likely-looking" house to break into and "sheer accident" made it Queen Mary's home, a court was told today.

O'Brien, a 26-year-old gardener, is charged with assaulting the Queen Mother's housekeeper, Mrs. Alice Knight, with assaulting Mrs. Knight's attendant, Mrs. Winifred Ralph, with being armed with a knife; and with stealing a purse elsewhere. The offences all allegedly occurred the night of June 23, after O'Brien had been drinking. The Marlborough House break-in and the subsequent search through the royal home for O'Brien, who finally was unearthed in a basement was said by prosecutor F. Donald to have been in a state of collapse when found and to have told police: "Please sir, don't hang me for it."

Barry said there was no reason to disbelieve O'Brien's statement that he did not have the faintest idea what house he was breaking into.

Island Road Sections Ready For Surfacing

Some sections of the island highway will be undergoing surfacing during the next few weeks, the B.C. Travel Bureau advised motorists today. The bureau added, however, that only short sections will be affected at one time and travelers need have no hesitancy in proceeding over the route. The new section of highway between Duncan and Ladysmith is set for surfacing. The road is open now but is dusty. Between Bowser and Coak Creek, north of Qualicum, construction and surfacing over a short distance is being undertaken.

Just north of Courtenay, at Sandwick, a two-mile revision is under construction. On the Alberni highway, construction work is going ahead on a six-mile stretch at Alberni Hill. From Alberni, three miles east, the road is gravelled but in good condition. The remaining three miles are under construction and caution is needed. The Sooke highway, from Dewdney Flats to the Island Highway is a little rough, but attention is being given to the road every day to control dust.

Hand-Wringing Won't Help

WHEN MR. DONALD GORDON, President of the Canadian National Railways, spoke the other day to the Board of Trade of Halifax on the occasion of its 200th anniversary, he quite naturally dealt with subjects of close concern to Halifaxians and residents of the Maritimes. He did, however, sketch in a broad picture of export trade for Canada as a whole.

Mr. Gordon noted, for instance, that postwar trade had maintained a high level in Canada as the result of the financial expedients of loans and gifts made by this Dominion and the United States to allied countries. The assistance provided by North America has, he said, "acted as sedatives to ease the painful adjustment to the radically different trading patterns of the post-war world. In no small measure the marketing headaches we are experiencing in Britain and the sterling areas are due to the fact that the sedatives are beginning to wear off."

The manner in which the postwar trade readjustment has operated is seen in reduced buying by Britain which, with hard currency in short supply, has restricted imports. Wringing of hands will not solve the problems that have been created, but, as Mr. Gordon says:

"Neither should we be content to fold our arms and sit down passively to await further developments. We must vigorously pursue the search for new markets—particularly in the United States where devaluation has given us a competitive advantage, and where the enlightened views held by the Administration give promise of breaking down some of the ramparts of economic nationalism which have long obstructed the entry of Canadian goods into the American market. Through marketing research we must set out to learn what our potential customers want, and through technical research see how it can be provided. We must look to the development of our natural resources to see whether they can be processed still further to our advantage, or whether they can be combined to turn out the kind of products for which markets are already available. We must continually review our methods and techniques of production with an eye to greater efficiency, so that our products, in terms of relative price and quality, can bear comparison with those of any other producers competing in world markets."

To that bit of sage advice, the C.N.R. president adds the rider that Canada must do all she can to stimulate international trade, "for to the extent that we do not buy from other countries we deprive them of the ability to pay for our goods in our currency."

Mr. Gordon speaks with more than ordinary authority. Like all informed Canadians he appreciates the vital character of trade to this Dominion. He has, moreover, a very particular interest in that trade. It is his job, on behalf of the nationally-owned railway system, to see that there is enough freight to carry.

Repeating A Grim Lesson

BY MIDNIGHT TONIGHT THE United States may have listed a total of 600 dead from the traffic-jammed long holiday week-end. The number of fatalities had reached 583 in that country early today. In Canada the Dominion Day toll was listed at 57 dead, almost half of them killed on the highways. In the immediate environs of Victoria one drowning fatality marred the holiday scene as nine-year-old Gail Shaylor lost her life in Glen Lake.

Those are tragic details recorded in the course of a period which should be full of enjoyment and healthy activity. In scores of cases the deaths may be attributable to conditions over which no human control could be exercised. Accidents are bound to happen and no known safeguard can eliminate all of them. The harsh lesson that the mortality figures bring home, however, is the urgent necessity for continuing caution at swimming resorts and on the roads. Little that can be said now can bring comfort to those bereaved. What must be emphasized is the fact that many accidents are preventable. Courtesy and care in driving and the observance of safety rules at recreation resorts can and do reduce loss of life.

It is worthy of note that the edition of this newspaper which carried the accounts of drownings in this vicinity and elsewhere, also reported the award of a Royal Canadian Humane Association bronze medal to Beverley Ross for her ability and presence of mind in saving the life of a young man at Shawnigan Lake slightly more than one year ago. Miss Ross, an expert swimmer, possessed the capacity to render assistance when it was needed. Almost continuously life-saving classes are being held here. They prepare young people for the role that the Victoria girl played so efficiently. As important as the rescue work they teach is the over-all lesson they give in the safety factors that should become normal precautions.

Taking a chance on the highway or at the swimming resort can exact too high a price. A life or lives may be at stake.

Poverty In The Midst Of Plenty

A YEAR AGO THE ENCOURAGEMENT of house-building and the provision of funds for increasing the number of dwellings for Canadians was one of the primary objectives of the Federal Government. It would seem that the need for United States dollars to ease the Dominion's exchange position has taken definite priority over that program, for both the reasons for the decline in house-building activity stem from that cause. An Ottawa dispatch quotes Resources Minister R. H. Winters as saying that high prices for lumber and a marked shortage of that commodity will retard both publicly and privately financed housing this year. In a country that is a major producer of lumber such a situation is obviously due to the fact that we are exporting so large a proportion of our cut that the remaining supply is not sufficient for our own use. Not only does the export trade reduce the amount available for home consumption, but the high prices that can be obtained in the American market—where buyers with American-scale incomes can better afford to pay American-scale prices—result in our having to pay as high, or nearly as high, a charge.

That seems to impose a hardship on Canadians that should not exist. The people of this naturally endowed land are as badly off as though they lived in a country that had no trees at all. Since we need housing so badly, it might be a good time now to take stock and see if we are not paying too much for the dollars to be obtained from export lumber sales. Are we to go short of Canadian-grown lumber so we can have more dollars with which to buy patented siding and roofing from the neighboring United States?

Some Bits And Pieces

Another trouble with the world is that the wave of immorality seems to be a permanent wave.

A hick town is the one where they think a "bookie" has something to do with a library.

Nowadays it's easier to carry the bride over the threshold than it is to lift the mortgage on the house.

The man who gets up the vacation folders certainly doesn't lack imagination.

Less Opportunity For Progress Seen In Modern View Of Work

By JOSEPH LISTER RUTLEDGE

QUITE a few months ago there appeared in the press a report of an address by Dr. W. R. Taylor to the convocation of University College, Toronto. A brief sentence from that address sticks in the mind like a mental burr: "There is something in our easy living conditions that seems to prolong adolescence."

OTHER WAY AROUND

Once youth sought a job first and let the salary follow. Now it is the other way around. Once "hard-worker" or "go-getter" was a title of praise. Today the personnel manager of a large corporation can tabulate the questions most frequently asked by applicants for positions and arrive at this list: "What are the hours? When will I get my vacation? Do you have a free hospitalization plan? Do you have pension and retirement plans? How soon can I expect a raise?" All the emphasis on the benefits, no mention at all of effort and opportunity.

One day many years ago, a young man stepped into the San Francisco office of Louis Janin, then the leading mining engineer of his day. Janin faced the youth with half impatient friendliness. "Just out of Stanford University, and looking for any sort of a job. That is it?" he asked.

"Not quite," came the prompt reply.

"I want to be a mining engineer, and I think this is the place to start."

"Why, boy," Janin retorted gruffly, "I've a list as long as your arm, of young fellows like you, wanting to be mining engineers, and thinking of themselves in my shoes. Even if they were good there isn't a job for them. Why," he added, with an impatient laugh, "the only job in the whole place is for another junior stenographer. See what I mean?"

"I'll take the job," came the prompt response, "but I won't be able to come till Tuesday."

When Tuesday came and with it the young man, Janin called him into his office. "I don't like being puzzled," he said. "If you were so anxious to start being a mining engineer, why did you have to wait for Tuesday?"

"I had to rent a typewriter and learn to use it."

"Hm," said Louis Janin. "And your name again?" he asked, making a mental note.

"Herbert Hoover," said the young man.

WHAT'S THE MATTER?

What's the matter with making opportunities? Indeed, what's the matter with work? Has the dream of a mythical ease and security sapped the red blood that once stirred men to accomplish great things?

The Alternative

By JOSEPH and STEWART ALSOP from Washington

THE whole momentous meaning of President Truman's decision to meet force with force in Korea can only be grasped in the light of what would surely have happened if he had decided otherwise. For there can be no doubt that the aggression in Korea was planned as only the first of a whole series of demonstrations of Russian strength and Western weakness, designed to lead to the crumbling of the Western will to resist.

Certain events in Iran, in the days immediately preceding the attack on Korea, suggest how the weak spots in the Western defences would have been exploited. Less than a week before the Korean puppets were given the signal to march, the Soviet ambassador in Tehran appeared at the Iranian foreign office. Briefly, he handed the Iranian foreign minister a toughly-worded protest, and departed.

THE Soviet protest recalled the 1921 Soviet-Iranian treaty. It charged that in permitting a "hostile power—the United States—to use Iran as a 'base for aggression,' Iran was violating the treaty. And it reminded Iranians that such a 'violation' gave the Soviet Union the right to enter Iran in order to expel the 'hostile power.'"

This was only the culminating point in a long campaign of pressure on Iran. For weeks, the clandestine Tudeh (Communist) Party, liberally financed by the Soviet Embassy, had been working with renewed energy to undermine the tottering structure of the state. And for weeks, the "free Iranian movement," using radio transmitters mounted on railroad cars along the Russian border, had been denouncing the Iranian government and the "imperialist"—United States—and promising "liberation," soon.

IRAN is one side of the medal. If the United States had failed to act in Korea, or if American action had been confined to handwringing protests, it might never have been necessary for the Kremlin even to send into Iran appropriately-costumed "free Iranian" forces in order to bring about Iran's capitulation. With only a little extra pressure, the corrupt, frightened Iranian government, the lesson of South Korea well learned, would almost certainly have begged for the best terms it could get.

And what would have happened in Iran would have happened in one form or another at other weak spots around the Soviet periphery, notably in Burma (where the British momentarily expected a Chinese-Communist attack after the Korean attack), in Tibet, throughout the Middle East, and in Greece. For the way in which such demonstrations of Soviet strength and Western weakness would have been exploited, it is only necessary to turn to Germany.

AFTER the Korean invasion, and before Truman announced the decision to resist, the reaction in the Soviet zone in Germany was automatic, and almost certainly pre-arranged. The Communist press immediately drew the parallel between divided Korea and divided Germany; warned that "today the powers of peace are already stronger than the forces of war"; and predicted "a tremendous victory for the peace front over the American warmongers." Soviet zone President Wilhelm Pieck, repeating the transparent lie that the Korean fighting was instigated by the United States, warned: "Should an attack by the West be tried here, the people of the Soviet zone republic would rally to the defence of peace at the side of the U.S.S.R."

THIS sort of thing must of course be translated from the Communese. But the translation is not difficult. It amounts to this: "Let the Western Germans, and all Western Europeans, be warned that sooner or later the fate of the Southern Koreans awaits you, unless you surrender on Soviet terms." And as Western Europeans are fully aware, the Soviets are building an army in East Germany, armed with much the same weapons, including tanks and divisional artillery, as the Northern Koreans.

Western Germany and Western Europe, which remain the Kremlin's paramount objectives, would not of course have capitulated immediately. But as one demonstration of Western weakness followed another around the Soviet periphery, a mood of appeasement and surrender would certainly have been induced in the major Western nations, while the Soviets themselves, emboldened by their success in Korea, became increasingly arrogant. Indeed, even in the three days between the attack and Truman's decision, there were visible signs that sensible Western Europeans were taking Pieck's warning to heart.

NOW, by contrast, the non-Soviet world has never been more united, the spirit of resistance to Soviet aggression has never been stronger than it is today. So much has courage accomplished at one stroke. There are still dark and menacing dangers ahead. But whatever lies ahead, it cannot but be better than the rapid crumbling of the defences of the free world, which the Kremlin certainly anticipated, and which would surely have followed American appeasement in Korea.

VEGETARIAN CONSUMERS

Ottawa Citizen

The Canadian consumer finds himself pretty well hemmed in. If he stops buying beef it goes to the United States. If he cuts down on pork, prices might drop a few cents and more would go to the United Kingdom. There isn't enough lamb or veal to affect the situation. The Canadian can shift to eggs and the vegetables now are wonderful!

OPERATORS' OBLIGATION

Much blame is laid upon the working man for the rising cost of living, because he wants his wages raised; but could there ever be a more glaring and heartless example of gouging than that of the lumber operators' recent unwarranted raise in the price of lumber?

Is there no longer any obligation on the part of these people to serve the public?

Is there any moral difference between the gouging of the monied interests and the cruel slavery of the communists? Perhaps the lumber operators, and others of a similar mind, should be made to realize that they have a duty to fulfill to the people of Canada, who are after all, the true owners of the natural resources of the country, and surely no one has a better right to use these at reasonable cost.

May I suggest to the people's representatives that an embargo on export for a while would probably bring the operators to their senses.

ARMAGEDDON AGAIN?

No sane or reasonable human being would claim to be able to tell what is going to happen tomorrow. But every rumor of approaching war produces a whole crop of Christians who go around saying, what did we tell you, there it is all coming to pass exactly as prophesied in the Bible. They will even ask you to believe that such and such a verse foretells the atom bomb!

The story of man's ascent from the animal level is not mentioned in the Bible for the very simple reason that its writers knew nothing at all about this enthralling subject. In biblical times Heaven was just above the bright blue sky. Astronomy has exploded this comforting belief. We now know that only about 7,000 stars can be seen by the naked eye under very favorable conditions. But astronomers with their largest telescopes can see somewhere around 1,000,000 stars and it has been computed that there are not less than 30,000,000,000 in the great galaxy of the Milky Way alone. It seems incredible that the creator of this universe (if there was a creator at all) should waste his energy so, when this little world is only now becoming unpleasantly over-crowded by the species Homo Sapiens.

I cannot think that any furbiting up of ancient myths to fit modern events will meet with any considerable credence among educated and thinking people today. The times are far too serious for any attempt to return to the Garden of Eden mentality. I am not an atheist, but think it quite probable that there is some ruling force behind this universe. If men wish to call this force or power, God, I certainly have no objection. But please don't tell me relativism is in Holy Scripture, for I am apt to make a retort which is not polite.

Peaceful Side Of The Atom

By WILLIAM DICK, B.Sc., F.I.S., Editor of "Discovery" (monthly science magazine).

THE QUIET Berkshire village of Harwell used to be known for the particularly fine variety of cherry grown in its orchards. Now the place is world famous; the packages of radio active isotopes prepared in Harwell's two atomic piles carry the village's name to all quarters of the globe. For the aerodrome from which the paratroopers of Arnhem set out was taken over by atomic scientists after the war; several millions of pounds have been spent to convert that aerodrome into the research centre for the British Government's atomic energy projects.

DONE MARVELS

Harwell's staff of scientists have done marvels in the past two years since I last visited the station. At that time America was supplying radio active isotopes for nearly all the hospitals and industrial and university research laboratories using them. This came about because America was the first country to build atomic piles, by far the best means of making isotopes. Now Harwell, with a smaller staff than its American opposite number had caught up, and Europe today relies on British-produced isotopes. In an average month over 500 samples of isotopes leave Harwell for all parts of the world, to the benefit of hospital patients and to the advance of international science.

It doesn't sound difficult to make a radio-active isotope. Radioactive phosphorus, for example, is made by putting a small amount of an ordinary phosphorus compound (say sodium phosphate) into a small aluminum can, inserting this into a hollowed block of graphite, ramming the block into an atomic pile and leaving it to "cook" to be bombarded by the neutrons that seethe inside the pile.

But materials heated in this way become extremely radio-active and extremely dangerous to handle. So one sees at Harwell the chemists manipulating these materials with very long tongs, analyzing them in vessels that have to be kept behind thick walls of lead. It is roughly true to say that every ounce of isotope has to be shielded by one ton of lead. Chemical reactions have to be watched through periscopes, and a piece of work that a chemist could do in 10 minutes takes a whole day because of the elaborate and tedious precautions that have to be taken if the risks due to radiation are to be avoided.

Chief radio-active isotopes made at Harwell are those of phosphorus and iodine. Nearly all the iodine is used in hospitals for treating diseases such as cancer of the thyroid. Another important radio-active isotope is radio-cobalt, now being tested in medical research centres throughout Britain as the most promising substitute for radium—it is, moreover, a very cheap substitute.

IMPRESSIVE WORK

At the present time the preparation of radio-isotopes is the most impressive line of work done at Harwell. Next in interest is Harwell's cyclotron; this monster atom smasher is the largest of its kind in Europe (though a bigger one is being built at Liverpool University and should be completed within two years). Everyone is interested in the possibilities of atomic energy revolutionizing power production. The scientists long ago sowed the seeds of the idea of atomic power stations which would extract the energy of atomic nuclei to replace the chemical energy of coal or oil. The scientists are working towards this aim, but all admit that they are a long way from achieving its practical effect.

INDEPENDENT Chinese newspapers in Hong Kong report that Chinese Communists are mobilizing their armies for participation in the invasion of South Korea.

While there is no confirmation of this report, it is such an obvious possibility that I for one don't like the sound of it. It's a development which could turn Northern Korea into a funnel through which Manchurian and Chinese fighting men would pour into Southern Korea in an endless stream.

In short it is a contingency which would present the defenders of South Korea with a terrific manpower problem. As fast as they defeated one army from the north, they would find that another had sprung up in its place.

Red Russia, standing in the background, would guide this military stream through the funnel. Meantime, the Soviet Union would keep itself aloof from actual participation on the battlefield.

The Chinese Nationalists estimate that there are available on the Chinese mainland and in Manchuria between 4,500,000 and 5,000,000 trained and equipped troops. That's a vast reservoir from which to feed this fresh assault against democracy.

And don't forget this: Many of those troops are veterans of many years' fighting.

Now, lest the reader jump to the conclusion that your columnist has suddenly become pessimistic over the situation, I hasten to correct any such idea. Despite the obvious dangers, the betting in well-informed quarters is that democracy will achieve its object without having to fight another world war.

Still it would be short-sighted if we didn't recognize the likelihood that we have a long, hard struggle ahead of us before we come to the end of this conflict which parades under the absurd misnomer of "cold war." It's "hot" enough so that the United States defence department has ordered marines and marine air units to report to Gen. MacArthur in Japan.

There certainly are signs of confidence among the high command in Washington. A similar air of confidence is to be seen in Britain. After receiving a report from Gen. MacArthur yesterday, government officials said London isn't likely to send troops or aircraft to Korea unless the U.S. asks for them. Britain wishes at the moment to limit her contribution to the naval support she already is giving. And of course, other members of the Commonwealth have given or have promised their support.

In this connection we shouldn't forget that this Asiatic upheaval isn't a one-front show. The Korean fight, while tremendously important, is only one phase of the conflict in this theatre. France has a tough fight on her hands in Indo-China and Britain is battling Communism on the Malayan front.

All these things taken together represent the Armageddon which this column has been talking about. The conflict with Communism may well be won or lost by democracy in this Far Eastern theatre.

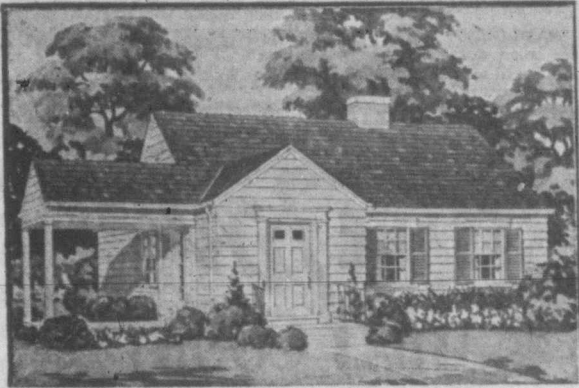

Ups And Downs

By BRIAN A. TOBIN

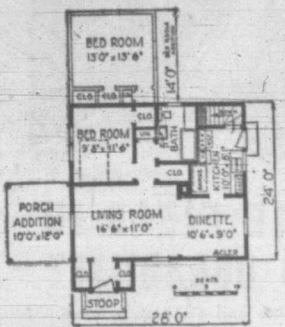

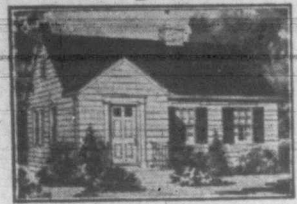

"THIS," said the Elevator Man, "is an age of standards. With so many statistics floating around, so many averages being worked out, and so many grades of perfection listed, it's no wonder we're always looking for comparisons to help us judge things. Everybody wants his product to be the 'standard'—that seems to be the highest word of praise. They forget it doesn't necessarily mean it's good. Standards can be low too. It's all a matter of your point of view. A broken-down old jalopy might look pretty good to a Liberian native or a high school kid, but not so hot to a bank manager. Robinson Crusoe might have welcomed even a bare when things got too lonesome. Mezzanine!"

"But," said the Elevator Man, "take that story they tell of the Guards officer who was inspecting the barracks. Down the great long room he marched, looking right and left. Not a speck of dust marred the walls or ledges. The floor boards shone like a polished tabletop. The beds were made perfectly with even the threads in the blankets lined up. The place looked as though it had been cleaned by watchmakers. Finally the officer approached the far end. And there on the floor, the merest tiny speck, was one small spot of mud. It was the size of a pin-head, but it caught the officer's eye. 'Sergeant,' he roared, 'this platoon is confined to barracks for 30 days. Look at that floor. Why, these men live like pigs!' And out he strode. Standards can be high. Main floor!"

"Of course," said the Elevator Man, "there's the other army extreme, too, the old, slap-happy Sad Sack type who operates in a dim blur. From them, I guess, came the military maxim that runs something like this: 'If it's on the ground pick it up, if it's too heavy to lift paint it, if it moves salute it.' It takes all kinds to make a world, and that goes for standards, too. As one old fellow said, giving his recipe for a good life—'keep your standards high for yourself and low for everybody else, and you'll get on fine.'"

Designed For Future Expansion

This original modern four-room home is complete with all comforts and conveniences, yet it offers to many the solution of their problem, immediate ownership, providing a spaciousness that is in keeping with the future expansion into a three-bedroom home.

The large living-room (with a natural fireplace) and the adjacent dining area extend across the entire front of the original home, providing a spaciousness that is in keeping with the future expansion into a three-bedroom home.

The compact "L"-shaped kitchen arrangement affords plenty of working and storage space. The two windows over the kitchen sink give sunlight where it is most needed.

THE HOME GARDEN

Biennials, Perennials Must Be In This Month

By JACK G. BEASTALL

Our second list of jobs to be done in July concerns the flower garden.

This month is the deadline to sow biennials and perennials in order to have plants sufficiently established to winter outside.

The more popular members of this group include aubretia, aquilegia, anchusa, cheiranthus (Siberian wallflower), bellis perennis, delphinium, dianthus (border) and dianthus barbatus (Sweet William), althea rosea, lupine, myosotis, pansy and viola, Iceland and Oriental poppy, primrose, pyrethrum, digitalis and Canterbury bells. A check of your seed catalogue will show new hybrids of many of these plants which are well worth growing.

Bearded iris should be divided every three years, immediately after flowering.

ENCOURAGE GROWTH

For prolonged blooming of annuals, remove faded flowers regularly and give the plants a mild "pruning" by cutting some flowers for the house. This encourages new growth and more blooms.

Maintain regular cultivation and feed occasionally with liquid fertilizer to intensify the color and increase the substance of flowers and foliage.

Prune climbing roses and flowering shrubs. Take cuttings of roses, shrubs and plants having half-ripened wood. Also carnations and pinks, aubretia, arabis and other rock garden plants.

Peonies are making next year's flower buds and need food and water. Stake and tie all tall growing plants without delay. Keep the rock garden weeded and remove all spent blooms. Trim the plants carefully, removing some of the older portions, but guard against a symmetrical, clipped appearance.

Dig spring-flowering bulbs as soon as the foliage has dried. Give roses regular spraying or fertilizer may be given if needed, but be sure to follow with copious waterings to make it active come, for the lush growth it will produce at that time will suffer now—not when the fall rains winter injury.

Don't water the lawn every day. It brings the roots to the surface, where they dry out. Set lawnmower to cut high during summer.

WAR ON WEEDS

Saanich's fire chief, Joseph Law, will be asked by the council about the feasibility of clearing municipal-owned lots of obnoxious weeds and blackberry vines. Councillor J. G. Ryan, who sponsored the motion at Monday night's meeting of the council, suggested this as part of a fireman's training.

Lack Of Water Draws Fire On Saanich Council

'We Are Demanding, Not Requesting,' Says Delegate

"Here you've got on your letterhead 'Saanich, the garden of Vancouver Island'—and what a delusion that is," exclaimed Hubert Savage, Grange Road resident.

He was speaking to Saanich Council Monday night along with several residents from the same area. The complaint was lack of water—a standard complaint throughout the municipality during these months.

"Mr. Savage said the residents of the area had become sick and tired of requesting water."

"Now we are demanding it," he almost shouted.

D. A. Rose of the same street gave the picture of just how bad the water situation was. It was impossible to flush a toilet or have a bath at 11:30 at night. There was a health menace and danger of losing lives and homes by fire.

Mr. Rose suggested that his plan of some years ago of connecting the four-inch main on Grange to the larger main on Burnside Road be carried out. Only a short distance separated the two lines.

Reeve J. W. Casey said he had begged the Greater Victoria Water Board for more connections. They had given him a flat "no."

Mr. Savage said the water commissioner had told him there was ample water if Saanich had the proper connections. Saanich has not.

Because the water system layout in Saanich was born "30 years too soon, so to speak," the municipality had a "bottle-neck" in the form of old rusty two-inch connections, the reeve said. He said $27,000 had been put in this year's budget to replace these in some sectors with four-inch pipes.

On a motion by Councillor E. P. Cummins, the council decided to make a plea to the water board to have a four-inch connection at Grange and Burnside. It was considered a compassionate case.

Baby Show Features Esquimalt Carnival

Plans have been completed for St. Paul's Anglican Church annual Carnival in Memorial Park, Esquimalt next Saturday. Rev. H. H. Creal will perform the opening ceremony at 2:30. The baby contest from 6 months to 18 months, which was such a success last year is expected to prove a big attraction.

There will be a number of stalls, pony rides and midway. The 75th B.C. H.A.A. Army Band will play. There will be a demonstration of dancing.

It's getting so that I'm a jinx to my partners as well," sighed Hard Luck Joe. "I don't blame you for doubting," he continued, "even though the double didn't turn out so well."

"That's very decent of you," growled his partner. "The jinx began when I got you as a partner."

Joe couldn't see what he had done to deserve this remark, but perhaps West's statement will seem less mysterious to other players.

West opened the king of hearts, winning the first trick. He shifted to a trump, and dummy won with the jack. Declarer next drew the last trump with dummy's queen and led the four of diamonds from the dummy. When East played the seven, South finessed the jack.

When West won this trick with the queen of diamonds, he was "fixed." If he led a club, South was bound to make a trick with the king. If he led a low diamond, South would discard a club from dummy and let the diamond come around to his king. If West led the ace of diamonds, dummy could ruff, and South would later discard one of dummy's losing clubs on the king of diamonds. If West led a low heart, dummy would win, and South would discard a losing club. If West laid down the ace of hearts, South would ruff and later discard both of his losing clubs on dummy's good hearts.

When the hand was actually played, West saw that hearts and diamonds were hopeless and therefore led the ace of clubs in the hope that his partner had the king. After this, South easily made the rest, fulfilling his doubled contract of four spades. Do you see why West growled at Hard Luck Joe? Decide for yourself before you read on.

Joe was guiltless in the play of the cards. There was nothing he could do to defeat the contract.

Joe's big fault was committed during the bidding. He should not have passed the double of four spades. It was obvious from the bidding that his partner was not doubling on spade strength but rather on tricks in the side suits. If West had enough high cards in the side suits to beat four spades, there would probably be a play for five clubs. Moreover, even if four spades could not be beaten, five clubs might either make or be set only slightly.

Actually, Joe could have made six clubs by playing the hand correctly. Making five clubs would have been no problem even to Hard Luck Joe. And even if he had found a way to go down one trick, it would have been far cheaper than letting the enemy take the rubber.

Residents Hit Plan For Saanich Slaughter House

Plan of Gerald F. Cretor to erect a slaughter-house on his Holland Avenue property was quashed at a public hearing Monday night in the Saanich Council chamber.

English Danseuse Teaches In Italy

LONDON (CP)—The Italians, it seems, want to learn about ballet from Britain.

Stung by newspaper criticisms of Italian ballet, Milan's famed La Scala school has invited Phyllis Bedells, a British ballet mistress, to teach at La Scala. Critics said top-notch British dancers, including Margot Fonteyn and Robert Helpmann, made Italian performers "look like scene shifters."

His ambition was killed by a petition signed by 29 ratepayers of the vicinity. They strongly protested it on several grounds, particularly as it would be detrimental to property values in the rapidly building-up area.

R. Hilton, Helen Avenue, voiced strong opposition personally to the Cretor plan. Another person who attended the meeting said he only came to thank the council for giving residents of the area opportunity to voice their opinion of a matter which was vital to the value of their property.

Floral Service For Sunday Schools

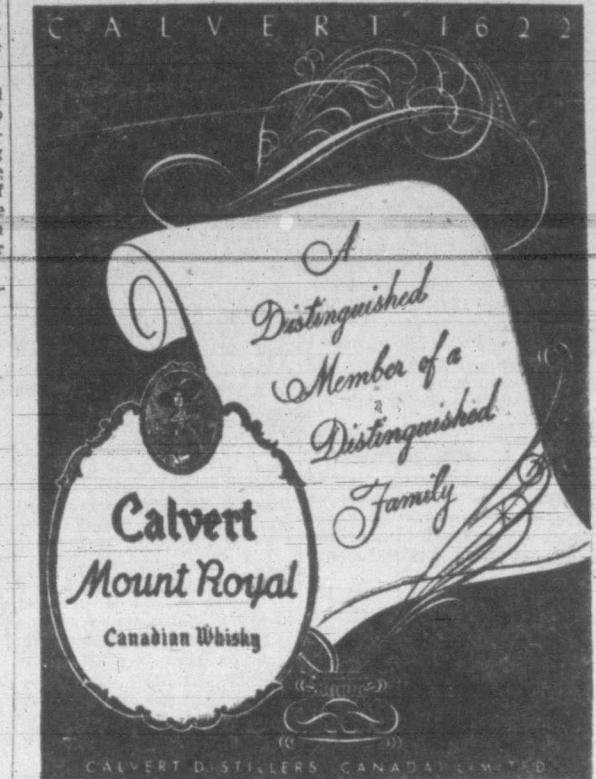

Archdeacon G. H. Holmes presented prizes at the floral procession service held in St. George's Church, Ganges, in which all the children of the North End, Beddis Road and Ganges Sunday Schools took part.

Mrs. G. Parsons and Miss Irene Cass, teachers, led the procession. Prizes were presented to Marilynne Parsons, David Parsons, Terry Newham and Terry Wolfe-Milner for regular attendance; Lynn Young, Bible Class prize; Phillip Meyers, intermediate class and David Parsons and Terry Newham, primary class.

War On Mosquitoes

KAMLOOPS (CP)—Families are being asked by the Thompson Board of Trade to contribute $10 each to fight mosquitoes. The money will pay for an airplane to spread D.D.T. in mosquito-breeding areas and to finance hand-spraying.

U.K. Prepares To Use Atom For Machinery

LONDON (UP)—Supply Minister George Strauss said Monday Britain is about ready to build experimental apparatus for using atomic energy to drive industrial machines.

Strauss declined to forecast the practicability of the machines until some experience had been gained.

"During the last four years considerable progress has been made in preliminary planning nuclear reactors for use as power units," he told Commons in reply to a question.

"New high voltage machines required for investigating components and materials which might be used in such reactors have been completed at Harwell and are being used to determine whether the various systems were practicable."

Y.M. Considering Mexico Bus Trip

Due to the outstanding success of the first Y.M.C.A. bus tour of the Northwest many more trips of such a nature are being contemplated according to Bob Morrison, program director of the Victoria Association.

The possibility of a trip to Mexico under the same plan was expressed by Mr. Morrison.

Mr. Morrison lauded the Americans with whom the travelers came into contact on the trip, for their generous hospitality.

The bus had the right of way during the entire trip and the vacationers were allowed on premises that ordinarily are out of bounds.

During the trip through the States folders were handed out publicizing Victoria and its attractions.

Only mechanical mishap on the trip was a breakdown in Spokane and delayed the party for twenty-seven hours.

After leaving the American side of the border the party made its way to Calgary thence to Vancouver.

Commenting on the Hope-Princeton highway, Mr. Morrison said that it was the best highway on the route for a combination of scenic beauty and good roads.

Handless Man Becomes Welder

EDMONTON (CP)—The encouraging news of a happy, useful life has been opened up for a 34-year-old Edmonton man, handicapped since a childhood feed mill accident which deprived him of both his hands.

R. Arthur Olsen now is working as a trained welder with an artificial hand. His new lease on life started recently through the co-operative efforts of the Canadian Red Cross, which supplied him with the artificial hand; the provincial government, which sent him through a welding school at Calgary; and the National Employment Service, which found a job for him.

HOLLYWOOD REVIEW

Secrecy At Making Of Valentino Movie

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Patricia Medina gives us a peek behind the silk curtain that has cloaked the filming of Rudolph Valentino's life.

The shooting of the Latin lover's life has been, as the cliché goes, shrouded in secrecy. Press correspondents have been banned from the set. The script was said to be guarded like a copy of "handy hints for making H-bombs."

I was happy to smuggle one of the picture's stars, Patricia Medina, out of the studio during the lunch hour. "Have you been sworn to secrecy?" I whispered.

"Not that I know of," said the beautiful brunette.

"Well, have you seen the script—the whole script?"

"Oh, yes. I read it all before I took the part."

Royal Theatre

Joan Crawford received what she calculated to be her 100th screen proposal for a scene in "The Damned Don't Cry," now at the Royal Theatre.

SAANICH GETS WATER ADVICE

Saanich Council will interview F. C. Stewart, consulting engineer, on its water problems. It is understood he will survey the distribution system and recommend improvements to tie in with Metropolitan Water Board's new mains from the water shed.

More Road Work Sought As Saanich Gets Extra $76,000 As Share Of 3% Sales Tax

On learning Saanich was to get about $76,000 more from the 3 per cent sales tax than was first estimated this year, Councillor John G. Ryan at Monday night's council meeting was quick to ask that it be put into road work. He wanted $50,000 put into public works fund for oiling and repairing side roads. There was no second.

To Attend Parley

F. Stanley Green, Saanich municipal assessor, will attend the conference of the B.C. Association of Assessors in Penticton Sept. 7 and 8. Saanich Council authorized Monday night.

Councillor Ryan was firm in his stand. "If we've got any money to spare, roads should get priority in its use," he declared. Reeve J. W. Casey, however, suggested a "go slow" policy. "Don't forget there may be a division of Saanich yet and it's a smart plan to have some money on hand for a little 'horse-trading' when it comes to division of assets," the reeve claimed.

SORRY, CAN'T DO

Until Saanich's water distribution system is remodeled, there can be no installation of water service along Old West Saanich Road, petitioners will be told by Saanich Council. Application came before the council meeting Monday night.

MURDER LIQUIDATED

by Julius Long

THE STORY: Sent to arrest the head of a bankrupt accident insurance company, Ben Corbett, special investigator, learns that this former executive, W. G. McGregor, is the man who has been sending him a $1,000 bill each day for the past four days. McGregor says that if he goes to jail, he won't go alone.

CHAPTER SIX

"All right, Mr. McGregor, so you sent me the four $1,000 bills? Why? Who told you to send them?" McGregor's anger seemed to intensify. "You dare ask that? You, who promised that you'd give me a clean bill of health if I sent you $5,000 in daily installments of $1,000 each? And now you have the nerve to pretend you don't know why I sent them?"

"I'm not pretending, Mr. McGregor. I never made such a promise or such a demand!" "Of course not—personally! You were too clever for that! You had some girl make the call. I took it right here in this chair from that extension phone." He pointed dramatically at a phone standing in a corner of the window sill. "Don't deny that you got the money! It was mailed directly to your apartment house!"

"Oh, I got the money all right. It's right here in my pocket. So a girl called you! Well, you should have called me back!" McGregor was eyeing me as if vastly puzzled. PARTNERSHIP "Then you admit you got the money right in front of Mr. Shelton? You aren't in on this thing together are you?" "No," said Shelton quickly. McGregor was still studying me, as if he might even be considering believing me. I tried to press this advantage. "We've both been victimized, Mr. McGregor. It so happens that I did turn in a report that gave you a clean bill of health. But a man higher up than I am recommended to Mr. Keever that you be prosecuted. I shouldn't tell you that, but I want you to know that I had nothing to do with those charges being filed!"

McGregor studied me, then said: "Well, maybe you did turn in the right report, but that doesn't help me any! I paid you for protection, and if I don't get it, you'll pay me back in kind!" The old man banged his fist against the wooden arm of his chair. Suddenly his temper broke. He began to cry. "I'd rather have had him banging his fist and accusing me. I nodded to Shelton, and we left the room. Out on the veranda again, I said: "Well, at least we know where the money came from! Somebody has foxed both McGregor and me, and I broke off, eyeing Shelton. He was avoiding my eyes. I snapped: "You aren't buying McGregor's idea that I put some girl up to making a deal, are you?" Shelton still wouldn't look at me. I really felt sick. "You did return a report favorable to McGregor, all right!" He had suddenly brought his gaze to bear on me. "That's what makes his story sound good!"

BILLS WATCHED "But not good enough! Do you think I'd be dope enough to have McGregor instructed to mail me grand notes daily for five days? Whether McGregor had the bank keep a memorandum of the numbers, they'd have done it because of treasury department instructions to watch $1,000 bills! Can't you see that somebody's trying to frame me an play McGregor for a sucker at the same time?" "All right, Ben, I believe you! But we've got to work fast and find out what the score is." He was dead right. "There's something about this insurance liquidation that smells," I said. "Nobody would frame me just for the sadistic pleasure of it. Somebody means to make a profit out of the deal."

Soviet Asks U.N. To Get U.S. Forces Out Of Korea

LONDON (AP)—Russia called on the United Nations Security Council today to get United States armed forces out of Korea.

In a lengthy statement bristling with accusations against the United States, the Soviet deputy foreign minister, Andrei A. Gromyko, said: "The United Nations will only fulfill its obligations to maintain peace if the Security Council demands the unconditional cessation of American military intervention and the immediate withdrawal of the American armed forces from Korea."

The statement, distributed by the Russian news agency Tass, accused the United States of committing "armed aggression," "a hostile act against peace" and of waging "open war against the Korean people." (In Washington the State Department said it would not comment immediately on Gromyko's statement.)

Reiterating previous Russian claims that U.S.-backed Korean forces had started the fighting, Gromyko claimed that U.S. "aggressive circles" sought to gain control over all of Korea to use it as a "military and strategic bridgehead in the Far East."

The Security Council June 27 adopted a U.S. resolution calling for military support of the South Koreans. Gromyko termed the Council an "obedient instrument of the policy of the American ruling circles who acted as violators of the peace... an instrument employed by the United States ruling circles with the object of unleashing war."

TIMES

By ART STOTT

THIS COLUMN starts its labored journey through the week shortly after 9 on Monday morning. By that hour the proofs have been corrected, the week-end activities have been discussed, the mail has been opened and read. This is the time Mark usually drifted into the corridor, bringing fresh towels and taking away those that hung last week on the hatrack.

You'd know it was Mark even if he wasn't calling "the morn-ing" to other members of the staff. You'd know it was Mark because he'd either be whistling an old tune under his breath, or singing, softly some bit of dog-gery in which you were a central figure—a merry old soul in a police patrol.

YOU'D FIND yourself waiting for Mark shortly after 9 on Monday morning. You might have passed the time of day with him if he took the early trip on the elevator, before the regular operator came on. But on his towel round you caught him for a minute or two of affectionate and disrespectful badinage. It was one of those crazy little inter-ludes that brightened the day. You paid him an extravagant compliment or castigated him roundly. He replied with an assumed dignity or a feigned anger, depending on your approach. The whole thing ended in quick laughter and a brief exchange of those insults that friends use to cover their esteem for one another.

There won't be any more of these Monday morning brighteners. Mark Griffiths died Saturday night. The wiry little grey-haired fellow, who kept his troubles to himself and had a cheery word for everybody, is gone. Another member of the old Times family has slipped away as quietly as he lived.

PEOPLE WHO knew Mark for years and worked with him on the newspaper think of the simple cheerfulness he brought them. They recall bad days, when they were younger in the business and when the breaks seemed to be going against them. They remember Mark's homely philosophy—"It's never so bad, but what it might be worse." They see him, taking a short rest from his clean-up duties in the news-room, leaning back in a chair, his broom sloped against his shoulder, as he read an outside paper left on some desk.

They remember his fishing stories and the low chuckles that followed them. They smile at the memory of his high laugh at some outrageous charge against him. For years he was "Shorty," "Pop" and "Granddaddy" to an irreverent bunch of youngsters. Then came a day when a bearded old man stepped into the elevator. Mark was operating and called to him: "Fourth floor, Sonny." From then on he was "Sonny," and those who called him it were "Daddy."

MARK MADE FEW demands on life. Kindnesses extended to him were received with embarrassed gratitude. Even before you knew him well, you sensed that he was part of a team. Beside him, in the things he did, stood his wife. They lived so closely together that they seemed to live as one. When a young fellow in the office became a father, a small bonnet or knitted booties, neatly wrapped, came through Mark from Mrs. Griffiths. A note in her hand would be left on a typewriter, showing appreciation for a little favor, or marking a special event.

In her long illness, Mark cared for her. When she died a few weeks ago, the songs seemed to go from Mark's lips, the whistle was silenced. He lived but a short while longer, a few days in a strange loneliness.

YOU THINK OF Mark now he's gone and wonder if you couldn't have done a little more for him. Then you realize how little he asked—a cheerful greeting, a little talk of the family, a bit of nonsense to show that life isn't a trip through a tunnel of gloom.

Some of his views come back to you. You remember his attitude to education, how he thought children should be given as much as they'd take. He started work when he was 10 and he didn't want his son to work as hard as he had. Yet it was a good life Mark lived, a life of simple service, of fellowship, of unpretentious pleasures, of close observance of the human comedy and the human tragedy.

It makes you think of the thousands of men like Mark. They believe in the fundamental goodness of people because they practice that fundamental goodness themselves.

SOMEHOW LINES from Gray's "Elegy" seem to be woven into their lives. Remembrance brings a touch of melancholy to the evening, and with it thankful-ness for the quiet friendships that have been their gift.

Board Criticizes Workers' Attitude

Nanaimo Bakery Employees Under Fire In Conciliation Report

Attitude of employees in conciliation proceedings resulting from a dispute in the bakery industry at Nanaimo is criticized in a majority report of a conciliation board made known today by the Labor Relations Board.

"The proceedings were made most difficult by the employees' action in demanding that every request made by them be granted," the majority report stated.

"The employees' attitude in refusing to discuss or consider any counter proposals of the employers regardless of merit leaves much to be desired."

The report, signed by Alex McFarlane and C. Ian Cameron, recommends for employees of Canadian Bakeries Ltd. and McGavin Bakeries Ltd. at Nanaimo, a wage increase of $1.75 weekly, retroactive to June 1.

Union asked for $2.50 which is recommended in a minority report signed by J. D. Temple.

The majority report recommends also reduction of 10 cents an hour in all extra compensation paid for night work.

Employees are members of the Bakery and Confectionery Workers' International Union of America, Local 468.

Garage Wants To Stay Open Till Midnight

A brief requesting the city to draft a by-law which would allow storage garages in downtown Victoria to close at midnight, was submitted to the City Council today.

The brief was submitted by R. W. Chard, acting as solicitor for four Victoria storage garages.

The garages are objecting to a recent petition submitted by a number of service stations asking for a by-law which would compel all garages and service stations to close at six on each week day and all day on Sundays and holidays.

Speaking on behalf of one of the storage garages, Dickson Bros., Mr. Chard in his brief pointed out that it was under contract to the Canadian Pacific Railway to provide storage and service facilities for guests at the Empress Hotel.

It was pointed out that during the period from six to midnight, the garage was busy catering to the tourist traffic receiving cars for storage overnight.

Keep Away From Soil Fumigator

F. H. Heidner has advised police of the area of the danger to children resulting when he uses his poisonous fumigating gases on soil.

"If children play in such an area, they can be overcome by gas which acts as chloroform," Mr. Heidner explained to police.

MARK MADE FEW demands on life. Kindnesses extended to him were received with embarrassed gratitude. Even before you knew him well, you sensed that he was part of a team. Beside him, in the things he did, stood his wife. They lived so closely together that they seemed to live as one. When a young fellow in the office became a father, a small bonnet or knitted booties, neatly wrapped, came through Mark from Mrs. Griffiths. A note in her hand would be left on a typewriter, showing appreciation for a little favor, or marking a special event.

In her long illness, Mark cared for her. When she died a few weeks ago, the songs seemed to go from Mark's lips, the whistle was silenced. He lived but a short while longer, a few days in a strange loneliness.

YOU THINK OF Mark now he's gone and wonder if you couldn't have done a little more for him. Then you realize how little he asked—a cheerful greeting, a little talk of the family, a bit of nonsense to show that life isn't a trip through a tunnel of gloom.

Some of his views come back to you. You remember his attitude to education, how he thought children should be given as much as they'd take. He started work when he was 10 and he didn't want his son to work as hard as he had. Yet it was a good life Mark lived, a life of simple service, of fellowship, of unpretentious pleasures, of close observance of the human comedy and the human tragedy.

It makes you think of the thousands of men like Mark. They believe in the fundamental goodness of people because they practice that fundamental goodness themselves.

SOMEHOW LINES from Gray's "Elegy" seem to be woven into their lives. Remembrance brings a touch of melancholy to the evening, and with it thankful-ness for the quiet friendships that have been their gift.

Thinks Wine Like Sunshine

"A meal without wine is like a day without sunshine," says Colin Mackay, on Australian wine mission.

Canucks' Wine Interest High, Knowledge Skimpy

By DAVE STOCK

Canadians don't know enough about wines. If they did, they would drink more.

So says Colin Mackay, overseas representative of the Australian Wine Board, now in Victoria winding up a month-and-a-half tour of Canadian cities.

"Canadians are not wine conscious," Mr. Mackay laments. "But they have a genuine interest in wine when the subject is brought before them."

"Canadians seem to be craving for knowledge of wines and how they should be drunk with various foods."

Wine, says Mr. Mackay, should certainly be served with food, and food should certainly be served with wine.

How much wine should be served with a meal?

"I've seen gourmets consume two full bottles with a meal," Mr. Mackay recalled. "But two people can be very happy with one bottle between them."

Government Gives Saanich Ward 6 Area Independence

No Dissenting Voice In Cabinet On Secession Move By Farmers

Breakaway from Saanich municipality of the former Ward Six farming area probably will be final by the end of the year. This was indicated today by Municipal Affairs Minister R. C. MacDonald who said there has been no objection from the provincial cabinet to the secession move of the rural area.

The minister said he broached the cabinet with the question last week.

"There was no dissent," he

More Demands For Secession Anticipated

Now that the government has acted on Ward Six's secession demands and granted the area independence from Saanich, Reeve Joseph W. Casey today voiced the opinion it was high time the government abolished the Saanich Relief Act.

The act was drawn for the protection of the farming element in which the government became the sole judge in deciding secession applications.

Under the Municipal Act, the municipal councils had the power to act on secession moves.

Saanich is not out of the woods yet on secession demands. The former Ward Three area including Cadboro Bay, Ten Mile Point and Gordon Head has definite intentions of trying to join Oak Bay.

The "Panhandle" section rate-payers of former Ward One are also juggling with the same plan, but their move at the present time is not as threatening as the other.

Victoria Golfers Prepare For Gyro Hole-In-One Test

If you are a golfer, or even if you are not, you should be sharpening up your driving eye. The Gyros' annual hole-in-one contest starts Wednesday and will continue through to Saturday, at Central Junior High School.

Final plans were discussed at the club's luncheon meeting at the Empress Hotel, Monday.

Roulette wheels have been freshly painted and all the many other games are being prepared by the hard-working Gyros. Advance ticket sales are reported to be up to expectations. The price is three shots for 25 cents.

Proceeds will go to the Gyros' many charities. Last year all money made went toward the construction of a cinder track at Victoria High School. The track has yet to be completed but it is reported that enough cinders to do the job have finally been obtained and tenders are now being called.

At the conclusion of the hole-in-one business at Monday's meeting, president Ross "Bud" Hocking gave a report on the National Gyro convention, held recently in Banff.

Six hundred delegates attended the convention.

Paper And Wooden Utensils
For Home Or At The Beach

By PENNY SAVER

Now that we've had lunch let's throw the dishes in the fire! Or better yet, in the ashcan! Aha! Think these sun-drenched days are beginning to rattle the rocks in my head? Just because I hear chopin' de boids and Swiss bell-ringers, doesn't mean this Saver gal is a candidate for the pokey. What all this does mean, is that we're using paper plates, cups, forks and spoons for our lunches on the lawn. It's one time when, after having enjoyed a hearty meal of salad and such, you can sneer at the dishes and throw them over your left shoulder. (Make sure no member of the family is standing behind you when you conduct this display!)

Wrapped in gleaming clear cellophane, paper plates sell for 20 cents for 10, 9-inch size; 20 pennies too, for 10, 8-inch plates and 15 cents will buy you 15 6-inch plates. Unwrapped, they're six for 5 cents and the larger size, five for 5 pennies.

Fork and spoons are made up in both white birch or a type of fabric, (looked like cardboard to me). For the wooden utensils you'll take home 12 spoons and forks for 15 cents and the fabric variety, a dozen for the same price.

When you take along that delicious potato salad to your next outing you'd appreciate the cartons made up in the pint and quart sizes at 2 for 15 cents. Fifteen pennies will also entitle you to 2 dozen tiny paper cups (about 2 1/2 inches high) . . . a roll of wax paper or 70 white paper napkins.

Paper cups, I might add, are no longer in the cold drink category. They've stepped right up to take their place in the picnic basket, accompanying the thermos of hot coffee or tea. Priced at 10 cents for 5 cups they'll eliminate a great deal of packing and worry of breakage. Other paper cups are selling for 10 cents for 10 cups in colors of red, green, mauve or plain white.

Wax paper made up into sand-bag bags will do double duty for beach or kitchen use. In two sizes, regular or giant, the bags will keep sandwiches moist and sand-free. For use in the "fris" you can stack away leftovers, cheese or cold cuts for the mid-night snack.

Having plastic bowl covers on hand to top off your good eats for picnic days is well worth the 39 cents you pay for a set of six covers. One set, which includes six pieces, offers a large plastic bag that's just what you'll need for packing heads of lettuce or other fresh vegetables. The sum of 49 cents buys that set.

Hey, there! Don't forget the paper straws! Fifteen cents buys you a hundred of them.

YOUR BABY AND MINE

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

No mother wants her child to be battered and beaten by other children. She has a natural resentment against any child who attacks her own and she feels sorry for her hurt lamb.

But any man child has to learn to fight before he reaches the age when, presumably, good sense and judgment will lead him to use diplomacy instead of fists to solve his difficulties.

The child who shies away from physical combat is going to be in hot water most of his life. He will be the natural target of every pugilistically inclined urchin. For where could one ask for a more satisfying victory than against the boy who won't fight back?

Even a show of fight will discourage a child. And if fighting results in a bloody nose or a cut lip, it is a small price to pay for one's self-respect and the respect of one's peers.

Our leaflet No. 57, "Children's Quarrels," may be had by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Myrtle Meyer Eldred in care of this newspaper.

DOROTHY DIX

Dear Miss Dix: Will you please tell me some of the characteristics that make adults seem youthful? Some people seem old, although they are still young in years. We all wish to remain young. How can we do it?

Answer: The best way to remain young is not to worry over growing old. Lots of women acquire wrinkles trying to avoid them and in their efforts to keep a girlish figure they starve themselves into withered dames, and look 20 years older than their age instead of 10 years younger.

To a certain extent we can keep our bodies youthful by taking care of them and eating and sleeping and working and playing right, but nothing stops the relentless march of time and we only befool ourselves when we think that we can attain a synthetic youth by the use of cosmetics.

Hand Weaving Art To Be On Display

Opportunities for self expression and creative effort are unlimited in hand weaving according to Marjorie Hill of the Victoria Handweavers' Guild, who announced latest plans to day for the National Exhibition of Hand Weaving to be held at Empress Hotel, Thursday, Friday and Saturday from 10 in the morning until 10 at night.

This is the sixth such exhibition held by the Guild and the standard of craftsmanship has improved very noticeably in the past few years, Miss Hill said.

"With a good hobby, one need never be lonely and as a hobby, hand weaving is particularly attractive. Interest may centre in pleasing use of colors or in original designs, or in combining new and different kinds of yarns."

An innovation this year is the setting up of demonstration rooms which will be furnished showing hand-woven textiles. Curtains, draperies and screen panels will be seen in their proper setting.

The Duke of Kent Room will be used for the general exhibition of local and out-of-town weaving, with many articles for sale. Guild members will be on hand at all times to explain various processes and techniques of weaving.

UP-ISLAND HONEYMOON

Ruth Wilson In Period Gown For Morning Rites

A period gown of Belgium lace in rose design was worn by Ruth Wilson, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Henry Charles Wilson, Newcastle-upon-Tyne, England, for her marriage in Christ Church Cathedral this morning to Ian Lawrence Llewellyn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilfrid L. Llewellyn, 1140 Pandora Avenue.

Dean G. R. Calvert read the nuptial service in a setting of summer flowers. An elbow length veil of illusion net fell from a headdress of stiffened lace over the bridal gown which featured a slashed neckline, lilypoint sleeves and back gathering to form a slight train. Given in marriage by Wilfrid Lawrence Llewellyn, the bride carried a cascade bouquet of honeysuckle and tea roses with a double row of pearls at her throat and ring brooch of pearls at the V of the neckline.

Mrs. R. O. Cave was matron of honor in orchid net over matching taffeta. Sweet peas and tea roses formed her colonial bouquet. Misses Ann and Gail Moyer, nieces of the groom were flower girls in organdy frocks of blue and yellow flowers respectively on the white grounds. They carried colonial bouquets of sweet peas and tea roses.

Richard Moyer was best man and ushers were James Allen and R. O. Cave. Graham Steed played wedding music. A three-tier wedding cake flanked by vases of honeysuckle and sweet peas centred the buffet table at Windermere Hotel for the reception. Dean Calvert proposed the toast.

For an up-island wedding trip the bride wore a grey and white printed silk dress with grey straw hat banded in scarlet velvet ribbon and light grey fine wool traveling coat. Accessories were white and her corsage bouquet contained deep pink and white roses. On their return the young couple will reside at Lee Oaks Apartments, 2310 Lee Avenue.

Brentwood Justweds Return From Southern Honeymoon

Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Valantine Delamere traveled to San Francisco and other points south following their wedding June 9, in St. Paul's United Church, Sidney.

The bride, the former Mary Edna Boffey, daughter of Mrs. H. M. Boffey, 1019 Richmond Avenue, and the late Percy Boffey, was given in marriage by her grandfather, K. Andrew.

The groom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Mathew Delamere, Keating Cross Road, was attended by Brian Sluggett as best man. Ushering were Daryl Sluggett and Jack Palmer.

For the service performed by Rev. E. S. Fleming, the bride wore a bouffant gown with white lace bodice and net skirt posed over satin. A coronet, fashioned in Tudor mode, held her wrist-length veil, and she carried a bouquet of white and pink rosebuds, carnations, and sweet peas.

Sisters of the bride were in attendance. Miss Alice Boffey, honor maid, wore green brocade taffeta, and Miss Margaret Boffey, bridesmaid, was in yellow taffeta.

Little Anne Knott, frocked in pink silk, was flower maid. Frank Aldrich sang "O Perfect Love," and Howard Vigne presided at the organ.

A reception was held in Women's Institute Hall, Brentwood, where Thomas Goodwin gave the bride's toast. A three-tier cake centred the table.

For travel the bride wore a Glen check suit with navy blue topcoat, accessories in tone and mauve orchid corsage bouquet.

Mr. and Mrs. Delamere are making their home at Brentwood.

Arcanum Member Chosen For Trip

Douglas Park Jr. was honored by his fellow members of the Royal Arcanum recently when Past Regent Leslie Dash presented to him on behalf of the officers and members, a purse, together with a letter of introduction from Mayor Percy E. George to the Rt. Hon. Sir Frederick Rowland, K.T. Lord Mayor of London. The mayor introduced him as "a member of his local church, an active member of the Y.M.C.A. leadership group, all of which have assisted materially in his training as a useful member of his community."

Douglas will leave on July 7 for England, being one of a group of 50 young boys chosen from Canada for a goodwill tour under sponsorship of W. Garfield Weston, prominent English financier.

First joining the Royal Arcanum as a junior in May, 1940, he graduated to the adult membership of Majestic Council No. 1513 in August of last year and has shown a growing interest in Arcanum activities since that time.

Hope To Reduce
U.S. Excise Taxes
By Billion

WASHINGTON (UP)—Chairman Walter F. George said today he believes his Senate finance committee will approve excise tax cuts of $1,000,000,000, with some "readjustments" in those voted by the House.

The Georgia Democrat indicated he would favor substantially deeper excise cuts if it were not for the uncertainties growing out of the Korean war.

His committee will start hearings tomorrow on the bill passed by the House last week to pare excise levies by about $1,000,000,000 a year and offset the loss in revenue by closing "loopholes" and raising corporation tax rates.

George told reporters he expects the Senate committee to approve about the same total cut "but not necessarily in the same manner."

$1,250,000 Suit

The suit asserts the freighter was to blame for a collision with the Great Lakes passenger ship City of Cleveland III on Lake Huron June 25. Five passengers were killed and 20 others injured.

'Witnesses' Banned

WARSAW (AP)—Poland has officially banned Jehovah's Witnesses, religious groups which has about 10,000 members in Poland. The rest of more than 50 members of the sect, charged with espionage, was announced last Thursday.

ATHLETE'S FOOT
A New Concentrated
Prescription Found

Athlete's Foot is a fungus condition which is very contagious—it is one of the most persistent skin eruptions known. A new concentrated prescription has been found which will destroy all odor and by consistent use, night and morning will relieve it. This prescription has been thoroughly tested and has shown remarkable results, even in long-standing cases. It is a clear, odorless and colorless liquid which will not "stain" or "burn" the skin. Wash your feet night and morning with warm water and pure soap. The prescription, Exoff Concentrated, is then patted on with a small swab of cotton, and allowed to dry. Your drugist can supply you with this prescription. Simply ask him for 3 ounces of Exoff Concentrated, and if your skin is tender or gets dry, you will also obtain 1 ounce of Exoff Ointment. You may buy this out—if it is well worth a trial.

Britain Unlikely To Send Troops Unless U.S. Asks

LONDON (AP) — Government officials said today Britain is unlikely to send either troops or aircraft to Korea unless the United States calls for them.

They spoke after the cabinet had met Monday and discussed an up-to-the-minute report on the over-all Korean situation received from Gen. MacArthur's headquarters.

Britain's wish at the moment is to limit her Korean contribution to naval support. She feels her ground and air forces are concentrated substantially on Western power security in the Pacific by holding the Malayan and Hongkong fronts, where Britain has been quietly reinforcing her garrisons for some months.

Prime Minister Attlee gave the House of Commons Monday a picture of the Commonwealth rallying to the South Korean cause.

He noted that Australia has already given air support, Canada and New Zealand have sent warships, South Africa has promised "sympathetic consideration" to an appeal for aid and India and Pakistan both have accepted the United Nations Security Council resolution recommending aid for South Korea.

U.S. Deficit On Year $3,122,102,357

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States government finished the fiscal 1950 June 30 with a deficit of $3,122,102,357 the treasury reported Monday.

That was about $2,300,000,000 or 40 per cent—less red ink than anticipated in an administration estimate made only last April 20.

The government went in the hole for the year—for the 18th time in the last 20 years—by spending $40,166,835,914 while taking in only $37,044,733,557.

The federal debt stood at $257,376,853,385 at the year's end last Friday. The treasury had $5,517,87,691 in cash on hand at the time.

Despite the bright showing against administration estimates, the deficit was about $1,311,000,000 greater than that recorded for the previous year.

Research Director For Shaughnessy

Simultaneously with the announcement of Dr. McIntosh's appointment, it was indicated that Dr. Bryan Holmes will be made a research fellow to assist in the Shaughnessy unit.

FOUR STAR FINAL

Baseball Fan Murdered As Game Starts

NEW YORK (UP)—A baseball fan was mysteriously murdered today in the upper tier of the Polo Grounds just before the start of a double-header between the New York Giants and Brooklyn Dodgers.

The victim was Bernard Lawrence Doyle, 50, of Union City, N.J.

Police said he was killed by a bullet from a high powered rifle. The bullet entered his head near his left ear. Officers said there was no question but that the death was homicide and they began an immediate investigation.

Doyle was one of a near-capacity crowd of about 50,000 people who attended the Independence Day game.

He had taken with him 12-year-old Otto Flaig. The boy told police he suddenly saw Doyle slump down in his seat.

He heard no shot and at first thought Doyle had suffered a fainting spell or a stroke. He called an attendant who saw the bullet wound and notified police.

Medical examination showed there were no powder burns around the wound, suggesting the bullet was fired from some distance.

Rumor U.K. Soon May Put Fuchs On Atomic Research Work Again

LONDON (AP)—Speculation cropped up in some quarters today that Britain may soon put atom spy Klaus Fuchs to work again on atomic research.

There was no official confirmation or denial of the report. The press department of the Home Office, which is responsible for Fuchs and other prisoners, said it was not given information about such matters.

Fuchs, one of the government's key atom scientists, was sentenced to 14 years in prison last March for tipping Anglo-

PLANS TO TRY 6,000-FOOT OCEAN DIVE

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Otis Barton, only man in history to see the weird creatures who inhabit the ocean at a depth of 4,500 feet, is going to try again.

Sometime this summer the Boston scientist plans to take his steel diving bell down to at least one mile, and perhaps to 6,000 feet.

Most of Barton's record-setting descent last August off Santa Cruz island was made in darkness because his lighting system failed. Consequently, his movie cameras did not record the strange, self-illuminated sea creatures he described by telephone during the perilous dive.

U.S. Paratrooper Sets Record With 107 Jumps In Day

FAYETTEVILLE, N.C. (AP)—A Fort Bragg paratrooper, who spent his Fourth of July bailing out of a tiny airplane, set a new world record for parachute jumping in one day.

Sgt. J. W. Swetch made his 107th jump at 12:08 p.m. after starting the routine at 2 a.m. at Fayetteville's Sandrock Air-Port.

By the time he eclipsed the old record of 105 jumps, a holiday crowd of 10,000 witnesses had gathered at the airfield.

After his 107th jump, Swetch quit the routine for a two-hour rest. But he said he would attempt to raise the mark as high as possible later today.

Security Of West Germany Questioned

Korea Situation Believed Reason

LONDON (Reuter)—Dr. Konrad Adenauer, West German Chancellor, has raised the question of West German security, the Foreign Office said today.

He wrote a personal letter to the three Western Allied High Commissioners.

A spokesman denied that Adenauer had specifically demanded a security guarantee for western occupation powers. Nor would he say whether the attitude of the British government to the question had undergone any change in recent weeks.

When last questioned, British officials said that security of Western Germany was sufficiently guaranteed by the North Atlantic Pact.

In diplomatic quarters it was believed Adenauer's move had been dictated by the experience of Korea where one-half of a country partitioned as an outcome of the last war has been invaded from the other—Communist—half.

The spokesman said Adenauer's letter would go before a meeting of the Allied High Commissioners.

More Canadian Warships To Prepare For Action

The navy made known today it was readying two more of its warships for possible active service.

Word from Ottawa was that work has already started on fitting out to be ready for battle the Esquimalt-based cruiser Ontario and the destroyer Haida, now on the Atlantic.

The Ontario, one of the largest ships operated by the Royal Canadian Navy, will be the last major vessel on duty on the Pacific coast after the departure for Pearl Harbor Wednesday of the destroyers Athabaskan, Cayuga and Sioux.

Ontario has been used as a training ship for recruits and naval reservists since the end of the war. Her summer training schedule was interrupted last week when orders came through for her to stand by here.

She is a 9,000-ton vessel built at Belfast for the Royal Navy. She was transferred to Canada in 1945.

The "Big O" mounts nine six-inch guns, eight four-inch anti-aircraft guns and six torpedo tubes.

Gunmen Rob Toronto Bank, Make Getaway

TORONTO (CP)—Two gunmen held up a northwest Toronto branch of the Dominion Bank shortly after 2 o'clock this afternoon and escaped with an undetermined amount of cash.

A bank official said the two men, both carrying guns, entered the bank and ordered the staff of five and a lone customer to hold up their hands.

Then one of the men shepherded them to a basement vault and closed the door.

Witnesses outside the bank saw the men make their getaway. They said the pair leaped into an automobile bearing a taxi sign.

First reports indicated a teller's cage had been cleaned of about $2,000 in cash. Nothing else was taken.

Members of the bank's staff described the men as "in their mid-30's." They said one of them wore glasses.

Bulla Qualifies For Main Event In U.K. Golf Open

TROON, Scotland (AP)—Johnny Bulla of Pittsburgh shot his second 70 in the British Open Golf Championship today to qualify for the main event beginning Wednesday.

With the aid of fine putting, Bulla clipped four strokes off par for the 6,788-yard Lochgreen course with a round of 37-33-70 today after matching par at Troon yesterday.

The low-scoring 100 players in the 36-hole qualifying test ending today will start afresh at Troon Wednesday in the 72-hole championship tournament.

Two former champions, Dick Burton of England, who won in 1939, and Ireland's Fred Daly, the 1947 winner, qualified comfortably with 143 total.

Defending champion Bobby Locke of South Africa blew himself to a 74 over the par 70 Troon course, this, coupled with his 68 Monday, put him in second place at 142.

Frank Stranahan of Toledo, O., the British Amateur champion, shot a five-under-par 69 at Lochgreen after an opening 74 at Troon for a 143 total.
